

New York New Visions

Rebuilding world-class

The Connections Team of New York New Visions, a pro bono coalition of architecture, engineering, planning and design professionals, is committed to honoring the victims of the September 11 tragedy by rebuilding a vital downtown with world-class transportation systems and walkable neighborhoods for its workers, residents and visitors.

connecting PATH, subways, buses, bikeways and ferries

Imagine...

...you've just arrived at a world-class transit hub in the center of downtown Manhattan...

...you can walk along a stylish all-weather concourse and choose from a dozen subways and the PATH.

...or go upstairs into a grand arrival hall with sunlight, connections to buses, and lots of information.

...want to take a boat ride? Walk down Broadway to the new South Ferry station.

...and now you can bike along the waterfront—all the way around the tip of Manhattan from Battery Park City to South Street Seaport.

Whether you want to shorten your commute, explore lower Manhattan, or get to a restaurant on time, you're well connected.

Regional

Maps show the various modes of transportation that could be linked into a coordinated system.

Transform transportation at central locations

- Create world-class transit hub at Fulton Street
- Rebuild PATH to hub
- Build Downtown "Grand Central" station

Connect to the waterfront

- Rebuild #1/9 to ferries
- Develop harbor-wide ferry network
- Link Hudson and East Rivers

Redesign West Street

- Connect downtown to Hudson
- Reconnect World Financial Center to downtown
- Integrate Battery Park City

We want to thank our members who helped prepare this poster... Graphic Design & Production: Max Heim, Sue Labouvie... Text: Bonnie Harken... The Connections Team: Lisa Beyer, Peter Cavaluzzi, Michael Fishman, Michael King, Jennifer Magee, Kim Mathews, Richard Register, William Rockwell, Fred Schwartz, Allen Swerdlowe, Donna Walcavage, Jim Wright